7 WMAL (ABC)

By this time, this show was hosted by Waltie Rasulala (Sheila Thomas was the original host).

On this date: Sunday February 29th, 1976 is only a week before PBS began its Festival '76 Membership Pledge Drive (PBS' second national membership and public awareness campaign in support for public television) for many PBS stations including my local station: KPBS San Diego beginning Sunday March 7th, 1976 and instead of 11 days (1 week), It is NOW 15 Days (2 weeks) running all the way through Sunday March 21st!! Join the Fabulous Celebration on Public TV!!

WMAL is WJLA now and WRC is now WWRC

WRC is still WRC. WTOP became WDVM, and now it's WUSA.

You are correct on WRC, I thought the radio changed, the AM affiliate is WWRC, I knew WTOP 9 became WUSA, I don't remember that pit stop at WDVM.

It was WDVM from 1978 to 1986. 'D' for District of Columbia, 'V' for Virginia, and 'M' for Maryland.

I lived down there in the mid 70s, I actually like that DVM call sign for the 3 locales, why did they go WUSA? I suppose because they're in D.C.

And the DVM calls eventually ended up at WHAG Hagerstown in 2017.

Do you blame WHAG, would you want those call letters "HAG"? 😊

Worked for 44 years:D...the ND was quoted at the time of the calls change that it was to show viewers that WDVM wasn't just a Hagerstown station

Does anyone remember that WBOC channel 16 in Salisbury, MD carried all 3 networks at one time?

9pm-12mid programs repeated from 12mid-3am

Retro: Rhinelander, WI, Wednesday, 04/03/1974

From The Rhinelander Daily News via Newspaper Archive

All programming assumed to be in color unless otherwise noted

The date will be familiar to many as the date of the 1974 Super Outbreak of tornadoes, so this should give an idea of what network programming was (assumedly) interrupted on stations from Ohio to Alabama that evening (either for news bulletins or because stations had been knocked off the air). There's an aircheck of WHAS-TV Louisville interrupting what looks like Sonny & Cher for a local report, since Louisville itself had taken a direct hit from a twister as did several communities in its viewing area.

There's no way that schedule is right because KOTV has had an hour-long newscast at 12 Noon since 1993, pre-empting B&B to the overnight hours.

Whoops, I forgot they dropped Bold and the Beautiful in 1993, but came back eleven years later in September 2004.

So I'll fix that.

That does make more sense BTW. Even that show's English Wikipedia article translates it as that.

Retro: St. Louis - Monday, March 25, 1996

I was visiting St. Louis from California that time, watching the Academy Awards that night. This is dedicated in loving memory of Barbara Walters whose namesake interview specials on ABC came before the Oscars (Eastern and Central) or after them (Mountain and Pacific).

Oddly, KTVI kept their late news at 10pm after moving from ABC to FOX and opted to run syndicated programming in the 9pm hour

they also aired to the Fox Kids line up to get it away from Rev Larry, but they ran it when kids were in school

1995-96 season might've held the record of the most syndicated talk show titles, in which I counted 21 of them!

The Academy Awards ceremony probably ran far longer than three hours!

Supposedly, you can actually bet on how long the ceremony will run.

With the Oscars now on a Sunday, the Motion Picture Academy should consider starting the ceremony at 7 P.M. ET (4 P.M. local in Los Angeles), preceded by a 90-minute "Red Carpet" show and followed by a post-ceremony wrap up that runs from the end of the show until 11:30 ET/8:30 PT.

I'm pretty sure it did. Usually, when it comes to awards shows and sports games, subsequent program times that I list are approximate.

they also aired to the Fox Kids line up to get it away from Rev Larry, but they ran it when kids were in school

He turned down UPN's affiliation offer due to its objectionable content (to his point of view, at least). KNLC did obtain secondary UPN affiliation from 1999-2000, as well as with WB affiliate KPLR.

they let him pick and choose what to air during the brief affiliation, which wasn't much besides STV

The Academy Awards ceremony probably ran far longer than three hours!

the rule says they can't end before midnight in NY, they need those musical fillers

8:00 Sanford and Son: "A Guest in the Yard"

KCRA was doing 90 minutes of news from 6:30-8:00pm back then? I don't recall that.

TheRolyPoly Productions, home of the SeriousXM newsletter.

Here's a screenshot of the Sac Bee's TV listing for that date:

Wow. I'm stunned.

I think there was a lot of experimenting going on in the early to mid 70's. A lot of it just didn't click. I remember KING TV in Seattle tried a "living room" format where the anchors just sat in comfy chairs with no desk. Then they went to newsroom format that was not from their actual newsroom, but the basement of their building. Both failed and it went back to a traditional desk and has for the past 40-plus years.

Did you mean Star Trek the next Generation at 8pm and Time Trax at 9pm because their both 1 hour shows and you have the news at 10pm.

I did by mistake, otherwise it will be alright, if the edit ending in 1 hour.

True also KTTV in 1993 is a Fox Owned station by then. I get it Fox Sports didn't exist yet and a decade earlier KTTV was an independent station managed by Metromedia.

Oh, I see.

Let me fixed the complete script in TV schedule, as you may know:

Late night listings were in grid form only and network stations listed by network; I assume the network schedules reflected the local affiliates: PBS (WCML) signed off at midnight, NBC (WPBN) at 2am, CBS (WWTV) at 1am and ABC (WGTU) at 12:30. WKBD signed off at 4am. Program names are likely abbreviated since this was in grid form only.

More about Retro: Carolina-Tennessee, Feb. 2, 1961

The reason every NBC station has a different show at 10:30 pm is because NBC gave the time back to the affiliates that season. Groucho moved from 8 pm to 10 pm in 1958; the shows which followed him were "Masquerade Party" in 1958-59 and "The Lawless Years" in 1959-60. Apparently, neither set the woods on fire, and Groucho's ratings were falling as well by 1960-61. I guess NBC decided it wasn't worth it to program 10:30, even though the competition was hardly formidable: Ernie Kovacs' "Take A Good Look" on ABC and "The June Allyson Show" on CBS.

Although never listed as an ABC secondary affiliate, WSPA (CBS) did pick up a few network shows preempted on WLOS. "Harrigan and Son" was one such show (it was on ABC Fridays at 8, when WLOS ran movies), "Take A Good Look" was another (Tuesdays, I believe), and WSPA continued to pick up an occasional ABC show until 1968; "Treasure Isle" was the last ABC show I remember being on WSPA (airing at 9 am instead of the recommended time of 12:30 pm, when "Search For Tomorrow" and (until September) "Guiding Light" were on CBS. At that time, WSPA dropped "Treasure Isle" and aired "Art Linkletter's House Party" on delay from 4 pm ("GL" got Linkletter's traditional 2:30 slot when it went to 30 minutes).

Retro: KPBS-TV Channel 15-San Diego, CA - (December 1975 Membership Campaign)-Complete Schedule- December 7th, 1975 through December 15th, 1975

SOURCE: San Diego Union and San Diego Evening Tribune from San Diego, California, Times-Advocate in Escondido, California.

Here is the complete schedule of the December 1975 Membership Campaign from PBS affiliate KPBS-TV in San Diego, CA from Sunday December 7th, 1975 through Monday December 15th, 1975 (THE MEMBERSHIP DRIVE USED TO BEGIN FRIDAY 5TH OR SATURDAY 6TH, BUT FOR THIS CASE, SUNDAY 7TH according the San Diego Union and San Diego Evening Tribune). □ □

NOTE: KPBS is conducting its usual local Membership Campaign called "KPBS Membership Days" but the second December National membership campaign for PBS and it will include Membership Appeals between regularly scheduled programs, so I don't know if the station had another membership pledge campaign (December 1974) after the February 1974 Public Television Membership Week or before the December 1974 Awareness Week or before Festival '75 and the August 1975 Membership Week, and any other membership pledge drive in 1972 and 1973.

SO PRETTY PLEASE Let me know in the comments or questions or suggestions for any concern... DON'T HESITATE, COMMENT ANYTIME!!

TNT aired Gone with the Wind broken into two parts its first two nights as it was a personal favorite of Ted Turner.

Yikes

What do you mean 'Yikes'?

That it was terrible. Yikes.

TNT aired Gone with the Wind broken into two parts its first two nights as it was a personal favorite of Ted Turner.

It was also the first movie shown on TCM in 1994.

It was Superstation TBS with more movies and minus the sports. Took a long time for TNT to establish much of an identity.

That it was terrible. Yikes.

TNT was terrible? What don't you like about it?

Easier question: what was good about it?

Nothing. Unless they had stellar movies...which seems doubtful.

Are you saying this just to bash my post? And if I may ask, what entertainment DOES fit your taste?

No one bashed the post. It's a comment about the schedule.

Ya even into the 90's TNT was just there, airing old westerns and Knots Landing reruns in the day, cartoons in the afternoon that could also be seen on TBS and Cartoon Network, and B-movies at night. I think having NBA, part-time NFL rights and then the rise (and fall) of the WCW gave the network more relevance for an overall weaker line-up. It wasn't until the early 2000's rebranding that TNT cemented a real identity around drama between acquiring stronger shows to rerun and producing actual top notch original content themselves.

For a brief time, TNT was using "We know drama" branding, while TBS was "Funny." That clearly defined what each was supposed to be, I thought. But it didn't last and the distinction between the networks got fuzzy again.

were the Atlanta Braves supposed to be comedy?

In the very early days of the SuperStation, you could argue they were, and Skip Caray, Ernie Johnson and Pete VanWieren often treated them that way.

But seriously, you're right. Sports had been a part of TBS from the start, and the "Funny" branding was meant to refer to the dominant non-sports programming on the channel. You found "Seinfeld" and other sitcoms on TBS, not TNT, and comedy dominated the prime time schedule.

Did TNT have the NBA during its "Drama" years? Same would apply there, although there is certainly more drama in a typical sports event than there is comedy.

2 years later, in 1990, TNT would broadcast live coverage of the World Cup soccer tournament from Italy!

I do remember watching TBS around 1995/1996 in the mornings after comedys Like Gilligan's Island and Three's Company they aired Little House on the Prairie. I think they also aired Matlock after the morning movie if I remember right.

Retro: KPBS-TV Channel 15-San Diego, CA - (Festival '76 Membership Campaign)-Complete Schedule-Sunday March 7th through Sunday March 21st, 1976

SOURCE: San Diego Union and San Diego Evening Tribune from San Diego, California, Times-Advocate in Escondido, California.

Here is the complete schedule of the Festival '76 Membership Campaign from PBS affiliate KPBS-TV in San Diego, CA from Sunday March 7th through Sunday March 21st, 1976 (PBS' National March Membership Drive was used to be 11 days (1 week), but NOW 2 Weeks (15 days), according to PBS, the San Diego Union and San Diego Evening Tribune). ☐ ☐

NOTE: KPBS is conducting its usual local Membership Campaign called "KPBS Membership Days" but PBS' second National Annual Membership Fund-raising and public awareness campaign, and it will include Membership Appeals between regularly scheduled programs, so I don't know if KPBS had another membership pledge campaign after the February 1974 Public Television Membership Week or before the December 1974 Awareness Week or before the 1975 membership drives, and any other membership pledge drive in 1972 and 1973.

SO PRETTY PLEASE Let me know in the comments or questions or suggestions for any concern... DON'T HESITATE, COMMENT ANYTIME!!

I don't understand the point of posting all these old schedules.

They're fun to look at & they also show what kinds of programming TV stations used to air.

Do you have the schedule for KMBC-TV, Ch. 9 in Kansas City, MO from this date?

Uh, okay. Guess everyone needs something to do.

@Kelly A i just like posting old schedules, 'kay?

I already said okay. Was curious why someone would do such a thing.

Also curious; in your spare time, do you post stuff on Wikipedia too?

no i don't.

Thank you! I wonder when they had stopped showing ABC World News Sunday? By around 1995, they had reruns of Rescue 911 & a local newscast in the 5PM hour on Sundays. They wouldn't start clearing it again until the mid to late 2010's. Also odd that they were also airing a rerun of it at 1:30AM, unless if the listing was incorrect & they were airing a rerun of the 10PM newscast. Also, I think that All News Night & All News AM actually came from the All News Channel (ANC). They would be replaced by ABC World News Now in January 1992.

Interesting schedule. I'm guessing they had reduced commercials based on some of these odd start times?

Good question. Notice they included some PBS shows in there as well as shows from the commercial networks, so that may have had something to do with the odd start times.

The paper also listed schedules for Korea, the Philippines and several other bases on Japanese soil (Okinawa, Iwakuni, Sasebo) and they also have odd start times.]

As a neat addition, this was the radio schedule listed for AFN's 810 AM at Yokota - the date wasn't specified so I'm not sure what day of the week this was.

A couple of points. There was a question about the CBS Morning News airing at 9 AM; was it a two-hour delay? No. At the time Mike Wallace's newscast aired at 10 AM (ET)/9 AM (CT). Seems CBS didn't want to put it against the "Today" show. But in 1965 it did, running for 25 minutes (7:05-7:30) with Wallace still anchoring. By the time the broadcast expanded to an hour (7-8 AM) in 1969, Joseph Benti was anchoring (I always liked Benti's successor, John Hart, although he got in trouble with Bill Paley for dressing too casually--in shirtsleeves, IIRC).

I also noticed the names of all the game-show hosts except for "Who Do You Trust?". Woody Woodbury had been hosting for about fifteen months (Johnny Carson left in September 1962--wonder what happened to him?:)). "Trust" would have its last telecast Dec. 27, and Woody would go on to host a syndicated talk show in the late '60s. BTW, he'll be 99 this year (and Bob Barker will turn 100 if he makes it to December).

Retro: Southeast Texas November 16, 1976

To answer my own question about Nancy Ames on KPRC: it is the same Nancy Ames who was the "TW3 Girl" in the 1960s. After "That Was The Week That Was" ended she and her husband moved to Houston and she got a show on Channel 2.

And I should point out about my dog that he watched Don Ho with my mom. She loved variety shows and even in the '50s would never miss either Tennessee Ernie Ford or Bob Crosby, both of whom were on in daytime. I was still at the University of Georgia, and Don Ho's show was not carried by either then-ABC affiliate WXIA or WLOS. What he did watch with me, once I moved out to Texas, was "The Bugs Bunny/Road Runner Show"; on Saturday mornings all I had to say was, "Hey Mike! Want to watch Bugs?" and he'd make a beeline to the set, waiting for me to turn on that wascally wabbit.

Retro: Traverse City, MI on the weekend of JFK's Assassination

As this year marks the 60th anniversary of the murder of President John F. Kennedy, here's what viewers in northern Michigan would have seen that weekend if JFK's Dallas visit had gone as planned, as featured in The Record Eagle on 11/22/63. The market did not get a full-time ABC affiliate until 1971.

Retro: Atlanta/Chattanooga/Macon Tuesday, August 14, 1962

I should make a correction regarding the resemblance of "Ichabod And Me" to "The Andy Griffith Show." Robert Sterling's character, Bob Major, did have a housekeeper who, in fact, was his aunt. Reta Shaw played Bob's Aunt Lavinia, and anyone who has ever seen Reta Shaw will know that "Livvy" was a far more formidable figure than Aunt Bee. It still doesn't explain why this show failed in what seemed to be a can't-miss timeslot, between Red Skelton and Garry Moore, and against two-less-than threatening competitors: "Yours For A Song" (a Bert Parks-hosted game show) and "The Dick Powell Show." Well, I guess Jim Aubrey had to have a failure now and then, but this show seemed to fit right in with his emphasis on rural/small town-based sitcoms.

WCKT was 7, WPST was 10.

Then the paper got confused :D , channel info was posted as listed.

Ralph Renick's show was in fact WTVJ's early evening newscast.

I believe he began at the station when it first went on the air in 1949 and anchored their early evening local newscast for nearly four decades. I also think he anchored special events and narrated documentaries for them for a few years after stepping down from the anchor desk.

He probably remains the most iconic news anchor in Miami television history.

All of this info is correct. He started in 1949 and left in 1985. Still revered in this town, and especially at WTVJ.

11:30 Movie "Father Was a Fullback"

The first network TV bulletin was on CBS at 1:40 EST/12:40 CST, breaking into "As The World Turns".

The only reason a videotape of that first flash (Walter Cronkite reading off camera while viewers saw a "CBS News Bulletin" slide) exists was because "As The World Turns" was being broadcast live to the Eastern and Central time zones and was being videotaped for a feed to California and the rest of the West Coast later that afternoon.

I believe the first ABC and NBC bulletins aired at 1:43 EST/12:43 CST, both breaking into local programs in the East. Likewise, they were read off camera with "Bulletin" slides seen by viewers.

As far as I've been able to ascertain, CBS went to nonstop coverage at 1:47 EST/12:47 CST; NBC began non-stop coverage at 1:53 EST/12:53 CST, and ABC started continuous coverage at 2 EST/1 CST.

Back then, TV cameras had lots of tubes and needed about fifteen minutes to warm up. Thus, it wasn't until 1:56 EST/12:56 CST (NBC), 1:59 EST/12:59 CST, (CBS) and 2 EST/1 CST (ABC) that network anchors were seen as well as heard. After the JFK assassination, all three networks installed "flash studios" with cameras always on so an anchor or correspondent could deliver a bulletin on camera. If CBS had such a facility on November 22nd, 1963, we would have seen a visibly shaken Cronkite deliver that first flash.

Bugs Bunny and Scooby Doo didn't clear channel 9??

Guess not, at least not for that weekend.

I had seen from an earlier listing that Bugs and Scooby dodn:t air in San Diego either.

At least they still had the Baltimore and Los Angeles CBS stations respectively, to watch them on.

Yes, especially if they had excellent antennas.

Channel 20 Pro Wrestling (WWWF Championship Wrestling).

Thanks for that full title. The schedules didn't mention that.

I suspect that the very last thing on local and national newscasts that night was:

"Finally, several burglars were arrested at the Democratic Party headquarters in the new Watergate office building in Washington today. That's the news for tonight, I'm (name). Good night!" (Followed by closing credits and closing their music)

That was why I chose that date and place.

MIDNIGHT Newsroom Update

This was the Monday after Chet Huntley stepped away from NBC's nightly newscast.

Huntley's retirement sent NBC executives into a panic mode. The solution they came up with was to rotate David Brinkley (who had been Huntley's coanchor), Frank McGee (who had moderated one of the Nixon/Kennedy debates in 1960 but then best known as anchorman for the NBC's live television coverage of space flights), and John Chancellor, a longtime NBC correspondent seven nights a week. On any given night, you'd see at least one, usually two, and rarely, all three of them.

If Huntley had stepped down a year earlier, Chancellor might not have been part of this rotation. But in the early hours of July 21st, 1969, Chancellor relieved McGee at the anchor desk for about six hours during a marathon 30-hour broadcast covering the Apollo 11 moon landing (after the moon walk ended) so McGee could get some sleep. And in April of 1970, Chancellor coanchored (with McGee) during the launch of Apollo 13 at Cape Canaveral, and reporting on the flight from the Mission Control center in Houston once the mission ran into trouble and the moon landing had to be called off. Chancellor won wide raves for both assignments, and that may well have given him an anchor slot.

But this rotation was confusing, as viewers didn't know who they would be seeing on a particular night.

A year later, McGee would be taken off the nightly news (and shortly afterwards, reassigned to host the "Today" show), Brinkley would be moved to a nightly commentary spot, and Chancellor was made the sole weeknight anchorman (with a young Garrick Utley anchoring the weekend editions).

(It should be noted that for a couple of years in the late seventies, Brinkley and Chancellor were made coanchors, but by decade's end, Chancellor was again some anchor and Brinkley again given a nightly commentary piece)

Ratings began to rise, but NBC remained second in the evening news ratings through the rest of the decade.

That's why I have NBC Nightly News highlighted in bold.

Ch. 26 Wrestling Champions must be a Chicago version of AWA All Star Wrestling.

Ah, the debut of M*A*S*H 50 years ago.

If you do to this country what you did to this school, America's finished. (Hawkeye's college professor) A terrific line of many to come.

And the NBC Mystery Movie. Columbo is seen late nights on Sundance.

Either the Chicago Bears were playing at home (back then, TV coverage of all NFL games were blacked out in the cities they were played in, even if the game sold out), or were playing on a Monday night, probably the former.

I'd guess that if the Bears were playing on Monday night, either CBS or NBC would have been able to feed an NFL doubleheader into Chicago, as back then, if a team was playing at home (even after the NFL allowed sold out home games to be televised in the cities they were played in), CBS and NBC could each feed just one Sunday afternoon game.

With CBS probably blocked from sending a Bears game to WBBM-2, the network did the next best thing by feeding a Green Bay Packers game (in the same division in and the arch rival of Da Bears) to WBBM.

It was Week 1 of the 1972 NFL season. Da Bears lost to the Atlanta Falcons at Soldier Field 37-21 that day. This was the first year of Coach Abe Gibron's three-year reign of error.

It could not be televised in Chicago because it was a home game. That changed the next season if the game was sold out within 72 hours, which IIRC rarely happened until Walter Payton joined the team in 1975. Even then, there were a lot of blackouts IIRC.

But Bears fans who had big UHF antennas on tall towers either at home or at their local bar could still watch most of the home games. The CBS affiliates in Rockford (WIFR-TV 23) and South Bend (WSBT-TV 22) were viewable in much of the Chicago area with the proper antenna. Both stations were outside the 75 mile limit from Soldier Field, and could air all the games.

RETRO: Minneapolis/St. Paul, Saturday, October 4, 1969

From the Minneapolis Tribune (via newspapers.com). Listings come again from a grid with a few programming highlights listed with the grid. Of note (and mentioned in an article above the listings): CBS slipped to 3rd place for the first time in network history during the week of September 22-28, 1969, behind NBC (1st) and ABC (2nd).

Just about a year before the Minneapolis-based "Mary Tyler Moore Show" debuted, and boosted CBS's ratings. I have the Twin Cities schedule from its debut day (September 19, 1970).

In the early years of Major League Baseball's League Championship Series, not only could a regular season TV flagship of a participating team carry that series, but could originate their own telecasts.

I recall that in 1975, the Boston Red Sox played the Oakland Athletics in the American League Championship series, and the Red Sox regular season TV flagship WSBK-38 produced their own broadcasts of the games.

Today, local TV flagships of MLB clubs can't carry postseason games. Local radio flagship stations can produce local radio broadcasts of postseason games, but I believe they must carry commercials also aired on the national (ESPN Radio) broadcast and in the case of the World Series, only the flagship station can carry the local broadcast with the other stations of the team's regional radio network required to carry the national radio broadcast. I believe that the same situation exists for the Super Bowl, the Stanley Cup finals, and the NBA finals.

Ah, yes. I was just returning to work after two weeks recuperating from an appendectomy.

When I have a schedule in this format, it's because doing it station-by-station would often exceed the 10,000 character limit when there's two affiliates of each of the networks (San Francisco and Sacramento).

There must have been a lot of TV channel tuning knobs getting a workout that afternoon between 1 and 4 P.M., switching between the 'Niners and Raiders games.

From what I've read in your replies regarding sports, I take it you're a big-time sports fan.

KSL's news at the time was known as KSL 5 Eyewitness News, not just Channel 5 News and it was like that from the 70s up until 2009.

Once again, thanks for that correction. BTW, where do you get more accurate historic info on newscast titles?

Knowledge from my brain plus this site...

TV NEWSCAST TITLES

That's where I check too, although it seems to read just "Eyewitness News" on both that website and in the Utah newspaper archives from around that time. Just did a little further research, and Wikipedia says that it became "KSL 5 Eyewitness News" in 2002, likely after the Olympics.

Regardless, it wasn't Channel 5 News.

It was in the '60s. I must've misread it. Will change it in my next two schedules. Thanks again and my apologies.

MIDNIGHT WWF Jacked

(listings past this hour unavailable online)

I think that Salt Lake City was the only market in the Mountain time zone where NBC's prime-time coverage of the 2002 Winter Olympics aired at the same hour as the Eastern and Central time zones.

In the rest of the Mountain and Pacific time zones, NBC's prime-time coverage aired on a delay (one hour in the rest of the Mountain time zone and three hours in the Pacific time zone).

I think daytime coverage may have been seen at the same time throughout all of the "Lower 48".

At several Olympics in the past two decades, NBC coverage during the overnight hours was an edited rebroadcast of coverage that was originally broadcast earlier that night in prime-time.

In recent years, NBC's prime-time coverage was shown at the same time across the entire continental United States, as at the last four Olympics (the 2016 Summer Olympics in Rio, the 2018 Winter Olympics in Pyongchang, South Korea, the 2021 Summer Olympics in Tokyo, Japan, and last year's Winter Olympics in Beijing, China), there were numerous events taking place during American television prime-time that could air live.

But for the next two Olympics (next year's Summer Olympics in Paris and the 2026 Winter Olympics in Milan, Italy), NBC's prime-time coverage will likely run from 8 P.M.-12 Midnight Eastern and Pacific (7-11 P.M. Central and Mountain) given that with the time difference, there will be no events taking place during American TV prime-time.

But daytime coverage for both Olympics (probably 9 A.M.-5 P.M. EDT for Paris and 1-5 P.M. EST for Milan) will likely be seen at the same time across the full network, given that there will be numerous events taking place during those hours that can be shown live.

So you're saying that the SLC area newspapers' schedules were an hour later than listed, let alone NBC affiliate KSL Channel 5?

Retro: KPBS-TV Channel 15-San Diego, CA - (August 1976 Membership Campaign)-Complete Schedule-
Saturday August 21st through Sunday August 29th, 1976

SOURCE: San Diego Union and San Diego Evening Tribune from San Diego, California, Times-Advocate in Escondido, California.

Here is the complete schedule of the August 1976 Membership Campaign from PBS affiliate KPBS-TV in San Diego, CA from Saturday August 21st through Sunday August 29th, 1976 (PBS' Second National August Membership Drive since 1975).

NOTE: KPBS is conducting its usual local Membership Campaign called "KPBS Membership Days" but PBS' second August National Annual Membership Fund-raising and public awareness campaign, and it will include Membership Appeals between regularly scheduled programs, so I don't know if KPBS had another membership pledge campaign after the February 1974 Public Television Membership Week or before the December 1974 Awareness Week or before the 1975 membership drives and Festival' 76

(March 7-21, 1976), and any other membership pledge drive in 1972 and 1973.

SO PRETTY PLEASE Let me know in the comments or questions or suggestions for any concern... DON'T HESITATE, COMMENT ANYTIME!!

That's what I just found out in Wikipedia.

Love the Best of KPBS!! On this date: January 11th 1987 was the date after KPBS concluded its successful 12-day December 1986 Membership Campaign(Friday December 5th through Tuesday December 16th, 1986) and before the station conducting its Festival '87(March 1987 Membership Campaign) from Friday March 6th through Sunday March 22nd, 1987!! It's when the TV station debuted on June 25th, 1967 for 20 Years at that Time!!

TV Worth Watching and TV Worth Paying For!!

No Tijuana channels on this post

RandTV said:

Except XETV if that counts. Other than that, none was listed in the Escondido Times-Advocate which is the primary source of this schedule.

The other Tijuana stations in 1987 would have been XEWT/12, XHAS/33, and maybe XHTIT/21 andXHJK/27 (both went on the air sometime that year). All were programming in Spanish at the time and perhaps the newspaper didn't figure Spanish-speakers were among their readership.

Here's XEWT's schedule from the following day, from the San Diego Union archives at newsbank.com. Sunday schedule unavailable.

MIDNIGHT Rawhide

I love the Excellent Programming I've been enjoying on KPBS...I've been posting one by one KPBS' vintage Membership Pledge Drive schedules here on Radio Discussions these past days and months, and I've contacted KPBS previously about information about 1972-1973 TV pledge drive schedules and they said to me: "We do not have that information stored in our archives. Unfortunately, we do not have a very sophisticated storage system, thus any data more that 10 years or so, we don't retain."

I'm about to post another San Diego, right from after KTTY Channel 69 first signed on September 30, 1984. I'm going to do October 8 of that year.

That's cool. Glad to hear it!

10:30 Julie

Julie Amato's guests on this night were Sylvia Tyson and Patsy Gallant, according to research I did on this series on June 24, 2019 while I was in Julie's hometown of Buffalo, NY (I got this listing from microfilm of the then-Buffalo Evening News at that city's main library). This was, I think, the second show after Julie's regulars R.G. Brown and Patrick Rose were somehow let go.

Nice to know! I assume Julie's show was made at CFTO?

No, it was broadcast from CFCF-TV in Montreal (the old 405 Ogilvy Ave. location), and was on the air from 1976-78 (I was fortunate to see some episodes of that show, even though I lived in Cleveland Heights, OH back then, because CTV affiliate CKCO-TV, either out of Kitchener or Sarnia/Chatham, Ontario, would sometimes come in); therefore, it was a Champlain Production in association with CTV.

MIDNIGHT Reggie Theus

Regarding Reggie Theus on KOVR; he was one of the star players on the NBA's Kings, who had just arrived in Sacramento that season (1985-86) after spending the previous thirteen seasons in Kansas City (including an early part-time stint in Omaha). Theus was actually a really good player, but he was pretty much a "stat-padder", in that he put up a lot of good numbers but on a bunch of losing teams--mainly the pre-Jordan Chicago Bulls and these Sacramento Kings.

KOVR was the TV flagship of the Kings for the first three seasons in Sacramento, before moving to Channel 31 starting in the '88-89 seasons, and then later to KXTV in the early-to-mid 2000s.

Interesting after two decades KXTV is one of two outlets in the Sacramento area that have local rights to the Sacramento Kings. In KXTV's case they broadcast Sacramento Kings games whenever ESPN is airing NBA Games for ABC Affiliates for two decades. The other is NBC Sports California have Local Rights in the area for Kings games

Here are KSCH's first full schedules:

I was wondering what that was.

I think that CBS did with Saturday Supercade what they did five years later with Rude Dog & the Dweebs, and that was to shelve it for a short time then bring it back. Rude Dog was replaced with Dungeons & Dragons for six months before CBS brought it back (There was some supposed concern that Rude Dog looked too much like Bud Light mascot Spuds Mackenzie for comfort even though he was the figure on a line of clothes for youths).

2:00 am - 23 Nite Videos

What was 23 Nite Videos? I am guessing it was some kind of music video show. Interesting that they chose to show that instead of ABC World News Now.

Yes. I watched it alot when I was young. Much better variety than MTV. Billy Soule was the host, but mostly it was just his voice. He also hosted an interview show "23 Music Magazine" I believe the show was around in some form up until PAX bought it out.

It was a locally produced music video show that was indeed hosted by Billy Soule (previously a DJ at WAKR radio and was one of the last music hosts on KQV in 1975 when they flipped to all-news). In the mid-80s, he did the show from 4:30-6pm and 7-8pm, which saved the station from haggling to buy the scraps of syndicated programming Cleveland stations didn't want.

23 Nite Videos lasted until ValueVision bought the station in 1994. Soule himself remained until after Paxson bought TV23 and fired just about everyone.

(BTW, ABC World News Now has never been offered on weekend overnights, of which this listing covered.)

WBIR was inside its final six months as a CBS affiliate, as it would swap networks (NBC, in this case) with what's now WVLT on September 10, 1988. It was also good timing for WBIR, as the 1988 Summer Olympics took place a week after the affiliation switch took effect.

Add to that, it was NBC's first Olympics telecast since the 1972 Winter Games, as it scheduled to televise the 1980 Summer edition, but it honored President Carter and the US Olympic Committee's boycott, and coverage was just relegated to highlights and minimal contest coverage.

Reminds me of the 2016 affiliation switch of WRAL.

They switched from CBS to NBC but kept CBS long enough for Super Bowl 50 plus airing the 2016 Stanley Cup Finals and the 2016 Summer Olympics from NBC later in the year.

On that day in Carmel, Betty White and husband Allen Ludden (host of "Password Plus") were celebrating his 63rd birthday at their vacation home. Two days later, Allen slipped into a coma in what was originally thought to have been a stroke, was actually high levels of calcium from medication for his stomach cancer. Unable to continue his hosting duties, close friend and colleague Tom Kennedy became permanent successor on "Password Plus". Ludden would succumb to his illness on June 9, 1981.

I worked for KSTS briefly in 1987. By then they were airing FNN (Financial News Network) daytime weekdays. Otherwise, it was mostly ethnic and brokered programming and sometimes Hee-Haw or a very bad old movie.

That was the year it became the Bay Area's Telemundo affiliate.

Tons of series I never knew were syndicated like "Private Benjamin", "Archie Bunker's Place", and "Beachcomber" (the Canadian series right?). That's what happens when the UHF boom meets the early 80s sitcom drought. Plus anyone amused WBNX airs "Lassie" reruns back to back but under different syndicated titles? You aren't fooling anyone.

According to Wiki, "The Beachcomber" was a British series.

Wow, somebody actually dug out a single season B&W syndicated show from 1962! That might be the most obscure TV show ever to be rerun.

Is that the right schedule for WEWS? As far as I'm aware, The Morning Exchange didn't become a 9-11 a.m. morning program until 1994.

I think you're right. I misread the schedule. It appears that they've cropped off Good Morning America's second hour from 8 to 10.

I forgot to mention that the Cleveland Plain-Dealer from 1986 is available on genealogybank.com.

I remember watching "Top Gun" on their sister station KSBY Ch. 6 from San Luis Obispo. On the news following that, my high school band and choir (our director led both groups) appeared in an article about our preparation for our New York trip to perform at Carnegie Hall the following Sunday (Mother's Day).

Thanks for sharing!

Interestingly it had been a few weeks since As the World Turns had expanded to an hour however with it being at 11AM I'm wondering if it was already airing a day behind as live would have been 11:30AM MT. KGGM/KRQE aired ATWT a day behind for years and years until 2009-2010, the show's final year on the year.

Both KOB and KOAT still use the Eyewitness News and Action News monikers to this day.

The ones I highlight in bold are either the main reasons I chose that date and city (Sesame Street in New Mexico) or another noteworthy TV event (Joey Stivic's birth).

Retro: KPBS-TV Channel 15-San Diego, CA - (Festival '77 Membership Campaign)-Complete Schedule-
 Sunday March 6th through Sunday March 20th, 1977

SOURCE: San Diego Union and San Diego Evening Tribune from San Diego, California, Times-Advocate in Escondido, California.

Here is the complete schedule of the Festival '77 (Some Great Things to See on Public TV!) Membership
 Campaign from PBS affiliate KPBS-TV in San Diego, CA from Sunday March 6th through Sunday March

20th, 1977 for 2 WEEKS as USUAL (PBS' Third National March Membership Drive), according to PBS, the San Diego Union and San Diego Evening Tribune). □ □

FESTIVAL 77 LOGO REFERENCE2.png1676758583954.pngFlip Wilson.

Actor-comedian Flip Wilson will serve as host and official spokesperson for Festival '77. Wilson will appear in videotaped fund-raising spots throughout the two-week period. During the event, participating stations will supplement their regular programming with approximately one-dozen dramatic shows, music and comedy specials, concerts, and sports and news documentaries. The programs produced in the United States and abroad were acquired specifically for "Festival '77".

NOTE: KPBS is conducting its usual local Membership Campaign called "KPBS Membership Days" but PBS' Third Annual Nationally Coordinated Fund-raising and public awareness campaign, and it will include Membership Pledge Breaks between regularly scheduled programs, so I don't know if KPBS had another membership pledge campaign after the February 1974 Public Television Membership Week or before the December 1974 Awareness Week or before the 1975 and 1976 Membership Drives, and any other membership pledge drive in 1972 and 1973.

SO PRETTY PLEASE Let me know in the comments or questions or suggestions for any concern... DON'T HESITATE, COMMENT ANYTIME!!

12:00 am - Off the air

Then-independent WDBD (channel 40) had cartoons every weekday morning (6:00-9:00) and afternoon (3:00-5:00), and even Sunday mornings.

From September, 1986 to September, 1987, WDBD had aired Transformers weekday mornings at 7:30.

In the '86-'87 school year (I was in 10th grade), I watched Transformers every morning before going to school. I guess I was lucky. :)

Did they pick up "The $25,000 Pyramid"?

Yes from 1982-1986 and 1987-1988.

Also, during 1986-87, WJTV also aired the cartoon, Smurfs' Adventures at 3:00pm

Sorry I meant did WDBD pick up $25,000 Pyramid in 1986-87 since WJTV preempted it (many independent stations picked up declined CBS/NBC/ABC programs through the 80's and early 90's).

I don't remember it airing on 40.

Thank you! A shame if it didn't.

Why would All My Children air on an NBC affiliate instead of Days of our Lives.

That was probably a misprint. It should have been Days of Our Lives for WTVG at 1 pm. WNWO had All My Children at 1 pm.

It was exactly a misprint, it's especially obvious when you had to do pay attention to the WNWO listings. For the record, exactly three years later (from the date of these listings), WTVG and WNWO swapped networks, with the former (along with WJRT Flint/Saginaw) becoming an ABC-owned station. Also, you'll notice that WADL is also carrying some preempted CBS shows (Family Feud Challenge and the late night block from 11:30 to 1:30) from WJBK, which at least since the late '70s has mostly and then eventually entirely bypassed the CBS late night lineup (even including the old Nightwatch program with Charlie Rose), electing to air syndicated shows and movies all night. WJBK was part of the old Storer/KKR/Gillette chain whose fellow then-CBS affiliates (WAGA Atlanta, WJW Cleveland, WITI Milwaukee) also were preemption-happy with the network lineups at various points of time.

Regarding (John) Kelly & Company--it was a local morning show that was one of the last remnants of the ABC O&O chain local morning format (i.e. WABC's Morning Show >> Live! with Regis [and whomever], WLS's AM Chicago >> Oprah Winfrey Show) that still remained even after WXYZ becoming a Scripps-owned station in 1986.

Re: Days... my fault. I mistyped it. Too little sleep I guess. The paper had it right.

It's okay it happens I was just wondering.

This was about three months before KSTP-5 dropped its NBC affiliation of over thirty years and switched to ABC (which it has been affiliated with ever since).

While ABC (thanks to it's sudden rise from third in the prime-time ratings to first during the 1975/76 TV season) was able to upgrade it's affiliate in many cities, landing KSTP was a coup since KSTP had been one of NBC's strongest stations.

Conversely, it was a huge loss for NBC, which had slipped to third in the prime-time ratings race by 1978.

KSTP's defection probably convinced some CBS and NBC affiliates who were "on the fence" about going to ABC to make the switch.

Didn't KSTP Radio also switch from NBC to ABC's American Information Radio Network at the same time?

This was about three months before a big network affiliation shakeup in the Twin Cities, which saw KSTP-5 go from NBC to ABC, KMSP-9 go from ABC to being an independent station, and WTCN-11 (now KARE) go from being an independent to NBC.

WCCO-4 was probably the big winner, as they didn't change affiliation. They stayed with CBS (and in fact, CBS now owns the station).

WCCO probably got CBS stars (and maybe even Walter Cronkite?) to do promos in advance of and during the shakeup in which they probably said something like "I'm/We're not going anywhere" and/or "I'm/We're still on Channel 4".

Two corrections needed to be made... WSB's news was, at the time and still is, Channel 2 Action News. WAGA's news was, at the time, FOX 5 Eyewitness News. WXIA and WGNX's news brandings mentioned during this time were correct.

Thanks for pointing that out. Looks like an error on Logopedia's part.

I wonder why WUPA, or even WATL, didn't pick up the ABC Saturday Morning schedule?

That's a major opportunity jump, as well as on WSB's part for choosing not to air it.

WUPA did clear Bump In the Night at the start of the season and I think they cleared What-a-Mess on a delay before discontinuing them at midseason. I thought WSB delayed Free Willy and Bugs Bunny & Tweety a week to 6 and 6:30 AM but I reckoned they stopped around that time.

Where is WTBS?

I wasn't sure whether to include that, since by then, it was a full-fledged cable network. But since you mention it, I'll put that on when I have a chance. My apologies for that omission.

Two corrections needed to be made... WSB's news was, at the time and still is, Channel 2 Action News. WAGA's news was, at the time, FOX 5 Eyewitness News. WXIA and WGNX's news brandings mentioned during this time were correct.

Actually WAGA didn't become FOX5 Eyewitness News until early part of 1997 when FOX actually took over ownership. It was still Channel 5 Eyewitness News. WXIA later would return to 11Alive News. WGNX was WGNX NEWS.

@TR1968 awesome, thanks for posting! :)

Guiding Light would have only been 15 minutes. Shouldn't it be Search For Tomorrow at 11:30 and Guiding Light at 11:45???

The published listings only indicated Guiding Light for the 11:30-noon slot, unless that was a typo by the paper...

It was definitely a typo. It was Search at 11:30 and Light at 11:45.

If anyone knows the movie umbrella titles for channels 5 and 9, and whether or not I've named those for channel 11 correctly, pleas let me know.

"Iran in Crisis" (the soon to be "Nightline") on a Saturday night? I checked the "Daily News" archives and apparently the Saturday edition only lasted one more week. Wonder how different TV history would have been if "Nightline" was a Saturday show; considering how poorly SNL did in 80-81, could a Saturday

"Nightline" have killed it off?

Or even a Sunday show.

Thanks for these listings

Interesting that KQED didn't use the 10am hour for instructional programming as the primary PBS affiliate in the Bay Area but then again KCSM would have been the "Telecourse and Instructional" programming station at that time.

Also around this time KQED owned KQEC-TV San Francisco and they had issues keeping their secondary station on the air at that time.

History of UHF Television

uhfhistory.com

Here is a possible reason why KQED for some reason went off the air at 10am and it's partially related to their management of KQEC-TV at the time

Where exactly does it mention that? That's a lot of text to scan for that.

The 'Off the air' for KQED 9 was more likely to be 'Instructional Programs'.

The latter is listed for KVIE 6. KQED has gone off the air during the day a few times. I'll try to get more information on that when I can.

It was partially connected to KQED's struggle to keep sister station KQED 32 on the air in the '70s.

Fascinating how the ABC affiliates in Cincinnati, Columbus, and Dayton cherry-picked some of the NBC daytime shows in lieu of the NBC affiliates running live programming produced and distributed by the AVCO corporation. Paul Dixon, Phil Donahue, and Bob Braun held court back in those days. UHF indie WXIX also pitched in. In '74, they carried the Dennis James version of "Name that Tune" from NBC, and the year after that, they picked up "Blank Check", "High Rollers", "The Magnificent Marble Machine", and, for a short period, "Somerset".

Yes, you're right about WXON not signing on until well into the afternoon back then. I'd been in the Detroit area that previous summer (August of 1974) and remember tuning to channel 20 just before 3 PM and being surprised when it wasn't on the air yet -- but a signal appeared shortly, and the station came on the air for a "Mister Ed" rerun at 3 PM. Apparently, they moved their sign on time ahead by a whole half hour between August of 1974 and March of 1975. Even as a kid I could tell that this was a station that was just barely hanging on.

Yep, 20 was definitely an also-ran compared to 50 - and on the Canadian side, Global (29) was even more so, being barely a year old at this point (1975). Both seemed to have their act together more by the mid-'80s with a decent slate of syndicated reruns and kids' programming, as will be demonstrated shortly when I share a schedule from 1990. I probably watched 20 more than 50, despite WKBD being Michigan's superstation for a good part of the late '70s and early '80s when they were carried on just about every cable system in the state plus parts of Ontario, Ohio and IIRC even Wisconsin (this would be reduced once markets like Grand Rapids, Lansing, Flint, Toledo and northern Michigan got their own independents, which all, like WKBD, eventually affiliated with Fox).

Ironically, WXON once operated on channel 62. Detroit would get a third indie later in 1975 - WGPR, on channel 62.

In Television Factbooks and Broadcasting Yearbooks, I've seen evidence of WKBD being carried as far into Ohio as Findlay, Sandusky, and Norwalk and as far west as Ashland, Wisconsin. 'KBD would remain on cable in the UP until it dropped FOX for UPN, but it would return to several downstate systems with its flip to UPN (as it was the only full-time UPN station in the state).

Until WGKI came on, WKBD was also on cable in Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario. Most communities in northern Ontario carried WUHF (and probably still do) as their Fox affiliate, so the Sault was an anomaly.

The Times-Herald would add CKCO to their listings when the channel 42 Oil Springs repeater signed on and would keep listing programs for CFPL even after it was dropped by Michigan cable systems. (By 1990, CKCO, Global, CBET, and CBLN (the CBC O&O that replaced CFPL as the affiliate for London and most of southwestern Ontario except Windsor) were the Canadian channels carried on Port Huron cable. The Broadcasting Yearbook shows CFPL on Port Huron cable in the 1979-80 period but dropped by 1981-82; however, CFPL still retained carriage as far away as Bad Axe, in the northern portion of the Thumb.) They apparently never listed programs for SRC (ch 68) or TVO (which would have been seen in Sarnia from the ch 59 Chatham transmitter). If I'm not mistaken, the Detroit Free Press was the only newspaper in Michigan that listed SRC programs (CBEFT), unless the Sault, MI paper did (Newspapers.com only goes up to 1974 with the Sault Evening News archives).

On those occasions when I was in the Detroit area as a kid (visiting family), channel 20 fascinated me. I think part of it was that even as a kid I tended to root for the underdog, and it was obvious that the station was an underdog. Frankly, it amazes me in retrospect that they managed to survive through the seventies.

Viewers in Atlanta got a dose of Chuck Woolery back to back 11:00 Love Connection and then at 11:30 they can turn to Scrabble.

Like Chuck's catchphrase "two and two" when going to commercial break.

I like how WSB went against the standard ABC schedule and kept Ryan's Hope at 12:30pm. If ABC hadn't bumped it up to Noon in October 1984, it might have lasted longer with better ratings. It is interesting though how WSB didn't even have Loving on its schedule at 12:30pm until after Ryan's Hope was canceled in January 1989.

Loving was such a terrible show while Ryan's Hope was considered one of the best written soaps of all time at its height and was gaining acclaim again before ABC cancelled it. Moving Ryan's Hope to the 12NoonET slot was awful. I do recall ABC allowed a special live feed for WPVI air the show at 11:30AM so the station wouldn't have to air it a day behind.

The Remington Steele rerun and the 12:40

Movie were CBS Late Night programs preempted by WAGA.

WSB's branding has been Channel 2 Action News not Action 2 News. This is WSB we're talking about.

My bad. The screenshot of a newscast from that time in the Logopedia (where I get most of these newscast titles from) had the '2' between 'Action' and 'News' which is what threw me. Thanks for the correction.

11:30 Good Night Alive

This was the day Roy Orbison died of a heart attack in nearby Hendersonville.

@RandTV do you have the guest roster for the talk shows on this day?

Guests and topics are as follows:

Today: Gene Hackman, Gary Cole.

Good Morning America: Henry Kissinger (discussing Gorbachev's US visit that day), Dan Aykroyd, Cybill Shepherd.

CBS This Morning: Dave Brubeck, Letitia Baldrige, Jean Stapleton, Vernon Walters, Jean Kirkpatrick, Cyrus Vance.

Live With Regis & Kathie Lee: Gene Shalit

Donahue: Children trained to hunt and kill animals.

Sally Jessy Raphael: Victims of holiday season tragedies.

Geraldo: Child molestation. (I was hesitant on whether topics like these were appropriate to post.)

Oprah Winfrey (once lived in Nashville): People maintain habits destructive to their health.

Tonight Show (pre-empted in Nashville by Family Ties and Benson): Paul Reiser, Rebecca Arthur; Musical guest: Diane Schuur. (from Nov. 18, 1987)

One note of interest I omitted, is that some network TV may have been interrupted by news coverage of Gorbachev's arrival in New York, meeting President Reagan and President-elect Vice-President Bush. The summit meeting at Governors Island was held the following day, but Gorbachev left early due to the devastating earthquake in Armenia (then a Soviet Republic).

If I left anything out or need correcting, let me know.

What was this show at 5pm on WTVF called Exta? Not the same Extra that still on the air that came on in 1994.

It was called "Channel 5 Extra".

Didn't Days Of Our Lives air at 1:30, having expanded to an hour after NBC dropped Jeopardy! three weeks earlier?

How To Survive a Marriage took Jeopardy's time slot when Another World expanded to an hour. This was very short lived. It was canceled and Days Of Our Lives expanded to an hour in April.

Ah, yes. WSB never cleared the 1:30 NBC show as an affiliate till DOOL was expanded to an hour.

That was the day Larry Fine of the Three Stooges died.

Retro: Shreveport, LA - Friday, November 10, 1989

"Steel Magnolias" held its sneak preview that day in Natchitoches, LA (where it was filmed) 76 miles southeast of Shreveport. Also, the previous day marked the fall of the Berlin Wall, which dominated that day's news programs.

LOL I'm going to have to jump on newspapers.com to see what that Sally topic of the day was 😊

You do that!

Interestingly it appears that the Lifetime talk Attitudes with Linda Dano covered the exact same topic that day, while Tom Bergerson's People Are Talking had an even more controversial topic not usually discussed in daytime....

Just wondering, did I do the right thing not mentioning that topic here?

You're perfectly fine 😊

Channel 4 pre-empted the NFL completely, even though there would've been enough time for most of a 1pm game to air before the Tigers game started.

That and as noted, the Lions had a primetime game on WJBK (a simulcast from TNT, in their first season of splitting the Sunday Night package with ESPN). If I would venture a guess why WDIV didn't air a NFL game that day, they probably couldn't risk the early game going past its time, and going into its Tigers coverage.

For what's it's worth, NBC's scheduled game that day were Patriots at Bengals, Chargers at Browns, Colts at Oilers, Chiefs at Packers, Dolphins at Giants (early games); Seahawks at Broncos, Steelers at Raiders (late games). As noted in the CBS listings, they had the NFL doubleheader this particular weekend.

If WDIV would've aired a game, I think they would've gone with Chargers/Browns or Chiefs/Packers.

Or maybe WDIV could have swapped games with cable (PASS?) to air Steelers-Raiders or Seahawks-Broncos

The football talk is somewhat amusing to me, because the reason I picked this date was that it was the date The Civil War debuted (and I'm a big Ken Burns fan). LOL

Why was news listed for channel 2 at 7, shouldn't that be 60 Minutes?

Question: Considering the schedule lists Fox shows in the 10:00 p.m. hour on WKBD at that point in time, when did the station launch Saturday and Sunday editions of (the original incarnation of) its 10:00 newscast?

Why was news listed for channel 2 at 7, shouldn't that be 60 Minutes?

Channel 2 was pre-empt crazy with CBS shows. I guess even 60 Minutes wasn't exempt. Later they'd pre-empt This Morning in favor of their own local morning show, Eyewitness Morning. WGPR 62 was actually airing This Morning even before the affiliation swap in 1994 which had CBS going to 62 and Fox to 2 with 50 reverting to an indie for the few weeks before UPN launched. Some other CBS shows pre-empted by WJBK ended up on WADL 38.

Retro: Los Angeles - Saturday, Nov 22, 1980 & Monday, Nov 16, 1987

These two dates mark the LA premieres of two of my favorite Hanna-Barbera specials, "Yogi's First Christmas" and "The Jetsons Meet the Flintstones" respectively.

First of all, I goofed about the latter date. "The Jetsons Meet the Flintstones" actually premiered in Los Angeles a week later on November 23, 1987.

3:00 Salut, bonjour

I'm a little confused, as the Detroit stations look to be in Pacific time. Detroit prime time would be 8-11, so Mountain would be 6-9. So shows like Alf on NBC and Macgyver on ABC should be on at 6, if this was to be listed in Mountain time. I lived in a Mountain time zone town that got TV from Central time zone towns, so I grew up with that.

Yukon was PT, same as British Columbia.

Need help translating those French titles?

I'll jump in for a couple...

Fais-moi un dessin was a local version of Win, Lose or Draw.

Haine et passions was dubbed Guiding Light

Double defi was a local version of Double Dare

I did a Google search because I thought it was on Pacific time and saw a site that said it was Mountain time so I went by that. But yes, with the times for the Detroit stations indicating Pacific time that didn't seem quite right to me either. Nice to have that cleared up.

Seems TVA liked to air quite a few American soaps. I've seen Aimer on the schedule as well, which I assume was ABC's Loving?

And they're more recently aired Y&R and Bold & the Beautiful. And yes, Aimer was a dubbed Loving.

I REALLY remember this schedule! Firebrand was actually an experimental "TV show" that showed nothing but TV commercials, both national & international, movie & videogame trailers & also had hosts that would give little trivia tidbits about the commercials & trailers being shown. It only lasted about a year before it was canceled. Firebrand's official YouTube channel is still up, however it hasn't uploaded anything in 15 years & is abandoned. There is also, at least, one partial off air recording from 2007 on YouTube as well.

Here's The Corrected KQTV Schedule From That Day:

Retro: Minneapolis/St. Paul -- Monday, September 28, 1987

From Minneapolis Star-Tribune via newspapers.com 6am-12mid are grids with highlights to the side; midnight-early morning are traditional TV Guide style, although I think they ran out of room for any of the 5AM shows. I'm going on memory for those.
